PANSIES IN WASHINGTON WINTERING IN THE OPEN

Lovers of horticulture will be interested to know it has been discovered in the propagating gardens attached to the Agricultural Department that the crimson pansy can be left in the ground all the year. The climate of Washington heretofore has been thought to be altogether unfavorable to the preservation of the plant in winter, and the pansy was always carefully housed during the colder months. "By accident a portion of one bed was overlooked and was not brought in. To the surprise of the gardeners it flowered heavily."

GIVES HIGH PRAISE TO LOUIS P. SHOEMAKER

Brightwood Citizens' Association Re-elects Him.

ALSO ALL OTHER OFFICERS

Protest Entered Against Overcrowded Condition of Suburban Cars—Matter May Be Remedied.

The Brightwood Citizens' Association held its annual meeting last night, and elected officers for the ensuing year. Incidentally, a high tribute was paid to the president, Louis P. Shoemaker, and his associates among the officers of the organization. The entire list was re-elected, flowers were presented to several of them, and many words of praise expressed in the nominating speeches. Every officer was elected unanimously by a rising vote, as follows:

Louis P. Shoemaker, president; Wilton J. Lambert, first vice president; Thomas Blagden, second vice president; A. E. McLaughlin, third vice president; C. C. Lancaster, fourth vice president; John G. Keene, secretary; Charles W. Ray, assistant secretary, and N. E. Robinson, treasurer.

President Shoemaker had intended to decline re-election on the ground that he has held the office for three years, and on account of pressing duties connected with his private business. This purpose, however, was cleverly forestalled. Thomas Blagden rose immediately after the call to order on a question of privilege, and presented Mr. Shoemaker's name as president for another term. He spoke in high praise of the manner in which the office had been administered, and said it was the unanimous wish that Mr. Shoemaker continue as the presiding officer of the association.

Unanimously Re-elected.

The nomination was warmly seconded by Wilton J. Lambert, C. C. Lancaster, N. E. Robinson, A. E. McLaughlin, John G. Keene, and B. W. Holman, and was put to vote before Mr. Shoemaker could say a word, and thus he was elected.

Mr. Shoemaker was presented with a big bouquet of roses, and responded in a short talk about the work of the association, thanking the members for their cooperation in the past. Mr. Shoemaker referred to a recent visit to Detroit, a city about the size of Washington, and told of a number of things in which the Michigan city excelled the Capital of the nation. One of these was the street railway service; another the existence of a number of broad avenues leading out of the city to suburban districts; a third a series of cross streets forming a boulevard about the city, and a fourth the air of cleanliness observable at every point.

Overcrowded Street Cars.

The association adopted a motion by Charles W. Ray asking for the improvement of the Shepherd Road from the Soldiers' Home to Rock Creek Park. N. E. Robinson presented some data with reference to the number of passengers carried by the early morning cars over the Brightwood division. From fifty-five to eighty persons are crowded into the cars day after day, when they will seat only forty-five. A motion was passed directing the secretary to lay the facts before the company with a view to procuring better accommodations. A. E. McLaughlin advocated the gathering of more data on the subject, and after a careful compilation, sending it to the President of the United States, in the hope that he would become interested and do something in his vigorous way. It was also suggested that similar data be furnished the newspapers for publication.

A vote of thanks to The Times was moved by Wilton J. Lambert and adopted for its impartial and full reports of the meetings of the association.

LAUREL COUNCIL VOTES TO GRANT A FRANCHISE

Electric Third-Rail System Approved By Unanimous Vote.

The Laurel council granted a franchise last night to the Laurel Traction Company, composed of Philadelphia capitalists, to use the streets of Laurel in the construction of an electric railway. The railway company was represented by Arthur B. Eaton, Matthew Hanley, John L. Hawthorne, Charles L. Fox, Murray S. Chism, Charles J. Barth, J. K. Lamb, and J. Oberdorf, all of Philadelphia.

The board of trade was represented by C. H. Stanley, Edward Phelps, James P. Curley, George Earle, Frederick Dalton, and Le Page Cronmiller. The company agreed to file a $5,000 bond that the work would be started in six months and completed within two years. The company will be assessed 4 per cent annually for four years.

The system to be used is the third-rail plan, and three miles of line will be built, covering Laurel and the immediate neighborhood. There was some opposition to a third-rail system, but this disappeared before the council meeting.

SUGGESTS THAT JEHUS TAKE CASE TO COURT

Corporation Counsel Submits Opinion on Cab Drivers' Contention.

A. B. Duvall Corporation Counsel, has submitted an opinion to the District Commissioners, upon the contention between the Cab and Carriage Drivers' Union, and hotel proprietors, relative to carriages standing on the streets in front of hotels. Mr. Duvall practically sustains the position of the union, and suggests that a test case be carried to the courts in order to obtain a judicial decision upon the proper interpretation of the law.

Mr. Duvall combats the theory of the hotel men that the carriages are necessary to their business as grocery and delivery wagons are. He declares the question involved is not one of convenience to railroad companies or of better service to the public, but one of equality and right, under the law. Mr. Duvall holds the police regulations on the subject to be clear that the streets should not be obstructed by these carriages. He urges a decision from the Court of Appeals in a similar case to defend his position.

It is understood that an arrest will be made and a test case prepared, as suggested by Mr. Duvall.

THE NEWS OF GEORGETOWN.

Circus Travel Involves Lawsuit.

A suit growing out of the collection of a claim against a government railroad in Germany was instituted this morning in the court of Halbert E. Paine, justice of the peace, by William L. Elterich against George R. Ellis, who resides near Tenleytown, D. C. Ellis was a driver for the Barnum & Bailey Circus Company, and was injured in a collision while in Germany. He engaged Attorney McCadden, of the circus company, to recover damages. As a long time elapsed and nothing was apparently being done by McCadden, he engaged Attorney Elterich to prosecute the case for him. The latter is a German, and conducted all the proceedings in the case in German. An award of 2,900 marks (about $480) was obtained. It is claimed that McCadden, upon hearing of the award, made certain representations and the money was turned over to him. McCadden retained $150, it is claimed, and gave Ellis the balance. The agreement that Elterich had with Ellis, it is alleged, entitled him to 20 per cent of the amount recovered. As it was through his prosecution of the case, it is claimed, the money was recovered, he sues for that amount. It is understood, proceedings will be instituted against McCadden later for the amount retained by him.
